HRC

- Our Army is facing demanding new challenges, such as fighting in Iraq, Afghanistan, and other theaters, in the war on terror. To meet the current and the future challenges, the Army is transforming to improve strategic responsiveness and Joint interdependence.
- Transforming the Army, while fighting the war on terror, requires both new ways of doing business and technological innovation.
- The HRC mission is to ensure the full spectrum of human resources programs, services, and systems are executed to support the readiness and well-being of Army personnel worldwide.

People Always - Mission First!
OPMD is committed to developing and assigning officers to serve a campaign-quality, joint and expeditionary Army. We do this by matching skills and experience to our assignment priorities -- Army requirements first, professional development second, and then officer preference. AIM has been developed based on this new reality.
Remember, regardless of where you serve, everyone is essential, what you bring to the fight matters, and performance is paramount. Now, take AIM at Army Requirements!

A Historical Perspective...

"The order came down: Any Soldier who had sixty days or less left to serve on his enlistment as of the date of deployment, August 16 (1965), must be left behind. We were sick at heart. We were being shipped off to war sadly understrength, and crippled by the loss of almost a hundred troopers in my battalion alone. The very men who would be the most useful in combat—those who had trained the longest in the new techniques of helicopter warfare—were by this order taken away from us. It made no sense then; it makes no sense now."

S1NET is part of an Army-wide knowledge management system supporting the flow of knowledge throughout the Human Resources (HR) community. It is partenered with a network of professional forums where HR community members can share knowledge and ultimately become more efficient and effective in supporting our Army at war. Through S1NET, HR professionals can easily share thoughts, ideas, experiences, knowledge, and lessons learned, and seek assistance from subject matter experts and peers. The goal of S1NET is threefold-fold: provide relevant and timely information to leaders in the field, provide new ways of capturing knowledge to improve decision making, and find new methods for tapping into the experiences of Soldiers and leaders to create a more effective learning community. Thanks for joining S1NET and taking part in improving our profession!

- INTELLIGENCE
  - LESSON LEARNED 1: Utility of ASAS during SASO operations was not effective.
  - LESSON LEARNED 2: The significance of detailed terrain analysis and products was magnified due to the complexity of the Division's battlespace and th
  - LESSON LEARNED 3: Requirements for linguist support increase exponentially during combat operations in complex terrain.
- MANEUVER
  - LESSON LEARNED 1: Lack of lethality/firepower by Airborne Infantry in Urban Terrain.
  - LESSON LEARNED 2: Inadequate Mobility of Airborne Infantry.
  - LESSON LEARNED 3: HE Hellfires are much better suited to an urban environment than the A, C, K model.
  - LESSON LEARNED 4: OH-58D self-CSAR should be a standard trained event.
  - LESSON LEARNED 5: Use of Special Operating Forces was a great asset to conventional forces in this conflict.
- FIRES
  - LESSON LEARNED 1: Use of predictive MET is a viable meteorological solution for indirect fires.
  - LESSON LEARNED 2: Small caliber indirect fires in an urban environment are very effective.
  - LESSON LEARNED 3: CENTCOM/CFLCC No Strike/Restricted Target Lists were not published in a manner that enabled Divisional and lower units to est across the operational spectrum. Targets on the list were identified by a single, presumably center of mass, Latitude and Longitude. For FSCM purposes must be given with either a center of mass grid and radius, or a grid-to-grid irregular area that corresponds to the shape of the target in question. Addition identified (i.e. a particular munitions type) all targets should be established as No Fire Areas.
  - LESSON LEARNED 4: Precision CAS was very effective in an urban environment.
  - LESSON LEARNED 5: Q-36 radar occasionally mistakes hellfire missiles for incoming artillery fire.
  - LESSON LEARNED 6: "Stovepipe" of leaflet nominations de-synched lethal and non-lethal effects.
  - LESSON LEARNED 7: Resupply of PSYOP products on the battlefield could have made a big difference in non-lethal effects.
- MOBILITY / COUNTER MOBILITY/ SURVIVABILITY
  - LESSON LEARNED 1: Integration of non-organic Engineers into Division Operations can cause confusion if not properly coordinated in advance.
  - LESSON LEARNED 2: Transitioning from Offensive Operations to Stability Operations must be resourced.
- COMBAT SERVICE SUPPORT
  - LESSON LEARNED 1: The ISTAAT cartridges are not adequately rugged for level II or FST use.
  - LESSON LEARNED 2: MEDLOG in theater was often slow in response and sometimes inadequate.
  - LESSON LEARNED 3: There is no effective, single integrated system used to track casualties after they leave the battlefield
